1. An Army order has called up the majority of Civil Court judges, who until now had been either unemployed or else working administrative jobs, and appointed them to various Courts of Justice.
2. No civil cases are dealt with except those of an economic nature.
3. A group of people tried under the "collective" system of punishment, introduced in the Spring of 1947, are given individual sentences in proportion to their guilt which is decided upon by the Public Prosecutor and the Bench. A sentence exceeding 15 years imprisonment is usually passed as "sentence of death".
